

WORLD VENTURE

Engaging the World for Gospel Impact

Go into all
the world
and preach
the Good News
to everyone.

(from Mark 16:15)

Billions of people
don't know Jesus.
We're not okay
with that.

More than words, they are a reminder on the wall of our main office of why we do what we do. Since 1943, God has used thousands of WorldVenture workers and partners to impact millions with the good news.

We plant churches, build clinics, educate children, train leaders, provide disaster relief, combat injustice, foster the arts, and serve the poor with economic development... in Jesus' name and to make disciples.

We recruit, train, and send disciples of Jesus throughout the world who sense God's call to give their lives to share the gospel with people who have yet to hear it. And we partner with multitudes of Christ-following disciples in engaging the world for gospel impact.

In the background, a person in a school uniform with a blue sash and sunglasses is visible, holding a wooden stick. The scene appears to be outdoors, possibly at a school event or festival.

Billions of people
don't know Jesus.
We're not okay
with that.

How, then, can
they call on the
one they have not

believed?

And how can
they believe in the
one whom they have not heard?

And how can
they hear without someone

preaching

to them?

And how can
anyone preach
unless they are sent?
